Responsible Waterproof Shells

First in the industry to make all of our shells with recycled materials and sew them all in Fair Trade Certified™ factories. That's what we're celebrating with our Shell, Yeah! campaign. Our focus is on the achievement—causing less harm with our environmental footprint and supporting the people who build our product—and on recognizing the risks and rewards of going first. Someone has to do it. And with 62 shells now responsibly made, we're glad we did it. Now we want the whole industry to follow.

Key Styles

Snow Shells

Untracked Jacket

The updated Untracked Jacket has a soft, supple 3-layer 92% recycled nylon GORE-TEX stretch fabric for unsurpassed windproof and waterproof/breathable performance, a fully dialed yet refined silhouette and a flannel backer for extra warmth and comfort.

SnowDrifter Jacket

Our backcountry-ready, lightweight 3-layer jacket provides H₂No® Performance Standard protection in a recycled stretch fabric. The SnowDrifter Jacket is the keenest of partners for uphill comfort when you need it, with serious storm defense for warm and dry descents.

Shell, Yeah!

First light, first tracks, first pitch.
First ever to make 100% of our waterproof shells with recycled materials and in Fair Trade Certified™ factories.

Being first is a risky endeavor, but someone has to do it. That's what drove us to make all of our waterproof jackets with recycled materials and rigorously test them to ensure we weren't compromising our standards for durability or performance. And because we've now partnered and launched Fair Trade programs in all of our shell factories, we're also supporting the people behind the product. The result is the most sustainably, responsibly and obsessively made collection of jackets anywhere. Shell yeah, we did.
